How to leave a gift in your will

Whether you are updating an existing Will, or planning to write your first, remembering a charity is easy to do. An up-to-date Will ensures your wishes for your loved ones and any charities you support will be clearly understood.

There are a few options you might consider. Once you have looked after those closest to you, you may wish to arrange for us to receive:

- A residuary gift made from whatever is left over once gifts of money and specific items have been distributed.
- You may choose to give the whole residue or a portion of it, to an individual or a charity.
- A pecuniary gift, which is a specific sum of money.
- A specific item, such as property or shares.

Many of our supporters choose to leave a small share of whatever is left after they have looked after those closest to them. This will ensure that the value of the gift is protected by inflation and that your loved ones will still receive what you intended.

If you would like to leave a gift in this way, the following wording can be adapted by your solicitor:

‘I give to the Board of Trustees, Hill Street Youth and Community Centre, Hill Street Rugby CV21 2NB, [proportion of residue] for its general purposes and I direct that the receipt of the Treasurer or other duly authorised officer shall be a sufficient discharge to my Executors.’

If you wish to make a gift in any other way, please refer to us in your Will as: Hill Street Youth and Community Centre, Hill Street Rugby CV21 2NB.

We always advise that you seek independent professional advice when writing your Will, to ensure that your estate will be distributed in accordance with your wishes.
